M: Hi, honey. I bought these carrots on my way home.

W: Great. We can add roasted carrots to our dinner.

M: Well, isn't it healthier to eat vegetables raw rather than cooked?

W: Not necessarily. Some vegetables are healthier for us when cooked.

M: What do you mean?

W: For example, by roasting carrots and tomatoes, it helps us to receive more substances that are good for our health.

M: Oh, really? What other vegetables are better when cooked?

W: When we steam broccoli and cabbage, they release a compound that helps to prevent certain types of cancer.

M: I see. That's why you always put steamed broccoli in our salad.

W: Exactly. Cooking can be a good way to increase some vegetables' health benefits.

M: Okay. Then I'll prepare the roasted carrots.

W: Well, I'll be here for the first three days of my exhibition. Is this your first time visiting this gallery?

M: Yeah. I'm especially impressed with this paper sculpture. What does it symbolize, though?

W: I intended to represent family love when I created it.

M: How's that?

W: By putting different pieces of paper together, it becomes complete just like a family.

M: Wow, I can appreciate your artwork even more after your explanation. I'm so lucky that I visited this gallery today.

W: Isn't it cool? That's my favorite part of this studio.

M: Awesome. Oh, there's a bookshelf in the corner.

W: We're going to keep our scripts in it. What do you think of the world map on the wall?

M: That's perfect for the background. I also like this stripe-patterned rug on the floor.

W: I don't think we have enough members for that. Hmm, how about promotional posters instead?

M: Good idea. Do you want to try creating the poster?

W: Well, I'm not sure. I'm not good at design.

M: Then I'll make the poster. I'll try my best to make it eye-catching.

W: But I'll mainly use it at home, so I don't need a foldable one. Plus, it seems less stable.

16번부터 17번까지는 두 번 들려줍니다.

[16~17] 다음을 듣고, 물음에 답하십시오.

W: Hello, students. We all know birds are expert nest builders. So today, we'll learn about the reasons that some materials are used in bird nests. Firstly, many types of birds incorporate different kinds of materials to keep their nests warm. Particularly, feathers are commonly used for this purpose. Secondly, some bird species build their nests along the side of cliffs or buildings, which requires sticky substances. These birds use mud because it attaches well to vertical surfaces. Next, some tiny birds normally build small cup-like nests with light materials, so they need an additional material to bind them. They often use spiderwebs to fasten these nesting materials together. Lastly, some species of birds that live in cold environments use certain objects to protect their eggs. These birds gather stones for their nests to place their eggs on. This keeps their eggs above ground level, which reduces the danger of flooding from melting ice. Now, let's watch a short video clip about these fascinating bird nests.
